SAC PRESIDENT - DENIS NOEL

Message from the President

It has come to my attention that some students have some difficulty understanding why sex in the hallways is not good for their health. Well this is true in a sense. For the people who are indulging, it's not bad - actually it's great (oops!). For the people who are watching however it is pure hell. They have to sit, listen and watch in order to understand what is going on.

Psychologically it could be quite disturbing or perhaps a little confusing, but imagine participating in such an event. Physically it is a great way to get in shape without even having to force yourself.

Well enough of that "BULLSHIT" and you can quote me on that. Seriously the moral of this story - or the message that I'm trying to get across is that if everyone would participate in organized events, this College would not only be a school that is academically outstanding but also a school that has something that many Canadian colleges and universities lack, and that is morality, unity and spirit.

If each person would take a moment to stop and notice the postings around the school, they would indeed find something of interest to them. If you can't find anything that interests you, then leave your suggestion in the suggestion box in the SAC office or in the ones that have been placed at the satellites. If you feel that you are not satisfied with the way that things are being run, drop in to see me or leave a message.

The only way we can operate effectively is if you "The Students" voice your opinions. "ASK NOT WHAT YOUR COLLEGE CAN DO FOR YOU, RATHER, ASK WHAT YOU CAN DO FOR YOUR COLLEGE"

Do you have a surplus of books, calculators or supplies? If so, turn them into cash to spend on something useful. Simply purchase a Knight Tymes Classified for $2.00 (30 words or less). For more information contact the SAC office.

The Other Side of the Goal Posts

Gentle readers, at the urging of several friends I will share an interesting experience with you for my first article. You will gather that I am not athletically inclined when I say that up to a month ago I had never witnessed a pro football game, but I have a healthy respect for any sport and for those with the skill to play one. Nevertheless, I had the dubious distinction of attending the Bills vs Jets game at Rich stadium. Now, allow me to digress for one moment and explain the basics of the game for those who don't know (yes there are those who don't know). Football is based on land aquisition. It consists of a small pigskin ball and two charging herds of rhinos. The teams' objective is to obtain enough yards to get a touchdown while doing as much damage to the other team as humanly possible; similar to war but with a rulebook. The player with the ball runs toward his opponents' end zone trying to get as far as he can before the opposing team can mash him into the ground (Pro football players have very short careers). Even armed with this knowledge I was not prepared for what was to come. For four quarters I sat, surrounded by many enthusiastic fans with more alcohol in their veins than blood. As the game progressed it became apparent that the Bills were losing (disasterously) much to the delight of a thousand fans and the dispair of ten thousand others. By the third quarter the war was still waging but more in the stands than on the field. Perfect strangers yelling things at each other I could never put in print; scores of police dragging over-zealous fans away kicking and screaming; and I being neutral, not caring who won or lost, was caught in the middle. Finally, the fourth quarter arrived and enter stage-right a vicious pack of German Shepards snarling and drooling. This was all too much for me. Deciding discretion was the better part of valour, I left at the two minute warning. While walking back to the bus (avoiding blood-thirsty Bills fans and stepping over those passed out in the parking lot) I came to one conclusion. There are a great many sadists in the world, both on and off the field. Still there is one bright, redeeming spot in all this. Were it not for football, would there be the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders?

Too Much Monkey Business

One of the largest and most organized clubs on campus is the Niagara College Business and Management Association (NBMA). The members number approx. 160, second only to the IEEE. This year's president is Joe Persia. You know Joe, he's the sharp dressed man that ZZ Top sings about. Joey has been working hard all year making sure that things are cool in business.

"September was our busiest period. We had a membership drive which garnered 75% of the present total, followed by a Barbeque. In October we organized an excursion to the Toronto Stock Exchange with side trips to the Eaton's Centre and Andres Wines." I asked Joe why business students would be interested in a winery. He replied "Free booze." In November, the club ran the trip again, although with not the same success. "Well we were competing with mid-terms" said Joe.

Besides the trips, the NBMA held a Heat Wave pub to raise funds for future endeavours. Dave Miller, vice president said the pub was a success. He said, "The varsity game before the pub drew some people and the fact that Capt. Invincible made a debut appearance, really helped us."

It was at this point that I asked Joe the question. "Joe, what can the students of Niagara College look forward to, from the NBMA?" "The NBMA plans to bring in a guest speaker at the end of January. His name is Bob Koehler and he'll be talking about success. Also we're having a speaker from Pen Personnel come in and talk about the dreaded Job Search." He added "We're also going to do a ski trip with the IEEE. But that is still in the planning stages."

Generally the executive of the club is quite pleased with the way things have gone. They would, however, like to see more participation and input from their members. Keep up the good work.

The Mating Game

Mother Nature in all her seriousness, has a romantic side as well. Take for instance the common slug. She has installed an instinctive mating drive, that exceeds even itself when cumming to reproduce.

Let's see what our little Romeo would have to go through if circumstances were not out of the ordinary. Say for example he had to reach his mate on top of a thirty foot pole. It takes one day to climb three feet. But, during the night while dreaming of his mate, he slides down the pole two feet. The next day, he gets up and does it all again. At this rate, how long will it take before he reaches the top and gets lucky?

CAPTAIN INVINCIBLE

THE NIAGARA KNIGHT'S COURT JESTER . . .

And just when you thought it was safe to go out! The Captain is the new official SAC mascot. He can be seen at SAC sponsored events and at varsity games. He sports a tattered T-shirt, a hard hat and a bandaged face to hide his identity. He comes to us from a GM plant where he used to supervise summer students. "That's why my voice is so hoarse. I had to tell you suckers how to do everything."When asked exactly what it is he does, the Capt. replied, "I stir the crowd to new heights and generally create havoc." He has, however, created friction between himself and the "officials" NCAAT mascot, the knight. As usual the administration has taken a hard line on the entire matter. In a Knight Tyme exclusive, the Knight had this to say. "It's nice to see someone crazy running around the school stirring things up. But listen, that's my job. This can only create problems. I consider this a slap in the face. I won't take this lying down." Upon hearing what the Knight had to say Captain replied, "This guy is all talk. I hope he shows his face some day. I want to show this guy who is boss." There is obviously bad blood between these two mascots. If they ever meet . . . . .

NIAGARA SPORTS

Fan Participation with the Niagara Knights

Rick Doucet, V.P. of Athletics

This year we are very fortunate to be able to enjoy the performance of two of the top-ranked basketball teams in O.C.A.A. Both Men's and Ladies' have winning records of 7-1 and 5-1 respectively. Not only do our basketball teams have the distinction of being top-ranked, our ice hockey team is definitely a championship contender.

So far there has been some participation on the part of the student body but with the enrollment such as it is here at Niagara, there should be double the present attendance. This year SAC, along with the coaches and team members, have made an effort to encourage fan participation at the games and we will continue to do so. We have tried to accomplish this by having contests, door prizes, post game activities and the one and only Captain Invincible; a legend in his own mind.

Over the years being a Knight simply meant attending Niagara College. One of S.A.C.'s main goals is to bring that school spirit back into the heart of the students. To make them young and proud again. A big step in doing this is to have fan participation.

When students were in High School they were proud of their athletic teams. I do not understand why they do not carry this tradition into college. It seems as if they have lost interest in supporting their school teams. Is it because they have too much homework? No, I don't think so. I see many students sitting around in the hallways during their spares. Is it a lack of promoting? No, can't be our promotion-coordinator he's doing a very good job and I feel the students would make somewhat of an effort to look for these notices. Is it because students are too mature to sit and cheer their fellow students on while they chase balls and pucks? Who knows? I don't!

Our athletes devote many hours to sports, which in turn interferes somewhat with their school work. They do all this in order to make Niagara College's name well known and respected. What do they get in return? Hardly any support from the student body. Our varsity teams along with their devoted coaches deserve much more. However, there are some students who have been loyal fans and the teams, Captain Invincible and S.A.C. would like to thank them for their continued support.

We need your support! So ride with the Niagara Knights and be part of the team. Once again we'd like to make note that all team members, coaches and supporters are well appreciated for their effort and dedication. They are the true NIAGARA KNIGHTS.

ARGOS PERSEVERE!

For the second year in a row, the intramural football champs are the Argos. This team is comprised of students from the second year Law and Security class. The Argos finished the regular schedule 3-1 and then proceeded to edge out the Pico Bandits and the A Team, before meeting the Criminals for the championship. The Criminals also finished their season 3-1. They advanced by skunking both the Eagles and the Speed in the playoffs. The championship game was a tightly contested affair requireing a double overtime period to declare a winner. When the smoke cleared the Argos emerged on top, 9-8.

Overall the entire league ran quite well. According to Fred Bassi, there were approximately the same number of teams as in previous years. "The competitiveness of the league, on the whole, seems to be improving with each year." said Bassi.

End of Term Bash '83

If you thought last year's End of Term Bash was great, wait until December 16, 1983 and you'll get the chance to party like that again. This is thirteen hours of pure partying for the students of Niagara College. (noon - 1:00 a.m.)

The opening act will be 15 PLATES; the former MEN FROM EARTH. 15 PLATES is a three piece synthesized act in which all the members play synthesizers and do vocal work. Their songlist includes some of the best New Wave music including; Flock of Seagulls, Men Without Hats, Rational Youth and more. Not only are these songs done to a "T" but the members of 15 PLATES have some very impressive original tunes. 15 PLATES will surely get your day rolling.

The main attraction for the pub will be the craze of FRANK SODA. Guaranteed to blow you away (literally) with his incredible stage show, Frank will provide you with a great evening. This is definitely one of those acts that you have to see to believe. Recently, in a conversation with Frank he mentioned that his show for this Bash would be, 'Full Production!'. In FRANK SODA'S terms this means it is going to be one hell of a show.

There will also be an additional band or two playing at the Bash but they hadn't been confirmed at press time. Keep your eyes open for the posters around the campuses for more details.

HEY GOOD LOOKINS!

A young man away at school wanted to give his sweetheart a gift for her birthday.

He decided to give her a pair of gloves. His sister being of about the same size went along with him to try them for size. While in the store his sister bought a pair of panties and told the sales clerk to send them to her home. The sales clerk, having gotten the packages mixed up, sent the panties to the young man's sweetheart and the gloves to his sister. The young man, not knowing what had happened, sent the following letter to his sweetheart.

Dear Wanda;

I hope you like what I have sent you for your birthday. I bought them for you because I noticed that you hadn't been wearing any on our dates. If it hadn't been for the salesgirl, I would have bought the long ones with the buttons but she said that the short ones were more stylish. The clerk showed me a pair she had been wearing for two weeks and they were hardly soiled at all.

I wish I could be there to put them on for you; they slip on and off so easily and when you take them off, blow into them because they dampen from wearing. I was going to send you the leather ones, but they crack up when they get wet.

Write me soon and tell me what you think of them. I can't help but think of all the times I will kiss the back of them when we are together again. My sister wears hers low and hanging for the casual look.

Until we meet again.

Dear Champ:

I suggest you work for the government.

Dear Rodnie Dee:

I came to college to find a husband. I'm graduating this year and haven't found one yet. Do you have any tips for me?

Dear Single:

If you were so sexy you wouldn't be single.

Dear Rodnie Dee:

I have accepted that I am a compulsive gambler and always bet on the loosers. For years I have been going for the leafs and now they're winning. I can't handle it and and I'm at the end of my rope.

Mech. Tech.

Dear Mech. Tech.

I suggest that you go for professional counselling, or discuss your problem with a teacher, maybe your math teacher.

Dear Rodnie Dee:

I would like to write to you to pass on a message, to the guy who was at the football game. Thanks for selling us those delicious almond and peanut chocolate bars and blowing all of our diets.

Weight Watchers

Dear Weight Watchers:

I would recommend that you invest in some three humped camels that can tap dance. This will help you get your mind off the guy with the tie.

Dear Rodnie Dee:

I have a serious problem and need advice. One of my teachers has been asking me out to dinner and is very persistent. I don't really want to go and am constantly making excuses. Sooner or later I'm going to have to make a choice. I'm afraid if I don't go I'll fail.

Rebecca

Dear Rebecca:

This is definitely serious. I would suggest you go to the teacher and tell him that you are engaged to someone in the SAC office and for him to send a self-addressed envelope containing a 5 x 7 glossy of himself to that office. Let SAC worry about him from there.
